WELSH CELEBRITIES TRACE THEIR ANCESTRY AT THE SHOW

On Saturday 3 May, The National Library of Wales they will be welcoming Rolf Harris to their stand, where there will be an exhibition of his Welsh ancestry. Other guests visiting the stand include BBC newsreader and presenter Huw Edwards, and Classic FM presenter Nick Bailey, so keep your eyes peeled!

If you also have Welsh heritage, a visit to The National Library of Wales is a must. They are the premier source for all Welsh genealogical research; they will have access to several indexes which are not currently available on their website!

TONY ROBINSON: WHAT IS THE ODDEST JOB IN HISTORY?

In a special show exclusive, Tony Robinson will be explaining some of the most peculiar jobs in history. If you have looked at census records and been baffled by the jobs your ancestors used to do, then perhaps Tony could shed some light on them. From the bizarre to downright horrible, you are guaranteed to learn something new whilst being thoroughly entertained! Visit him on Saturday 3rd May on the interactive Ancestry LIVE! stage.

COME FACE TO FACE WITH SPECIALISTS FROM ACROSS THE GLOBE

This year's show also takes on a more international flavour with a number of our exhibitors visiting us from lands afar. Memorial University of Newfoundland bring to us an incredible collection of Atlantic ship records from Canada, and the Church of Latter Day Saints have come all the way from Utah to share their huge collection of records with you. There are also DNA specialists from Switzerland and the United States, and so we would like to extend a very warm British welcome to our international exhibitors.
